

REVISED COMPANY HANDBOOK

ECEnterprises Group Manila, Inc.

Version 1

Effective March 1, 2025

Reviewed January 21, 2026

ECEnterprises Group Manila, Inc. (hereafter ECE, ECE Consulting, or Company) establishes this Company Employee Handbook which aims to provide the standards of discipline and professionalism necessary for smooth operations and excellent customer service. This serves as a guide for the conduct expected of all employees in relation to Company Management, customers and co-workers.

The Company Employee Handbook also contains a Code of Conduct to ensure corrective (at the same time, punitive) actions which are consistent, fair and prompt.

The Company Employee Handbook applies to all employees regardless of status and position and shall cover all violations committed during work hours and/or in the work premises, except when otherwise indicated herein.

ECE CORE VALUES

Servant Leadership

We are not here to be anyone's "boss", we want to be their mentor, their support, and help them achieve their goals. We are therefore here to serve our subordinates, not to grow our own egos by being "the person in charge".

Front-line First Mentality

Our business is customer service, and our product is the people who directly interact with our clients' customers. Therefore, the front-line troops must be the focus of everything we do. The support team is there for one reason - to help the front-line troops get better. Our frontliners should feel appreciated, well taken care of, and happy to work for a company that treats them like the professionals they are, vs. like "agents". If we take great care of our frontliners, they will take great care of our client's customers.

Meritocracy

We must only reward and promote based on performance. We must never favor anyone, give preferential treatment to anyone, or become close personal friends with people we also need to manage. Everyone must believe fully that the company evaluates them strictly on their contribution, and not on any personal preferences by the leaders.

Client Focus

If we don't have happy clients, we don't have a business period. Knowing that, we need to do whatever it takes to make our clients extremely satisfied. Clients are the foundation that everything else is built on. We need to appreciate all of our clients, and help our teams do the same. They are the reason we are in business and thriving.

Kaizen

Kaizen is the Japanese term for "continuous improvement. Our processes are never perfect. Leaders need to constantly review how we perform the work, looking for incremental improvements that will make us more valuable to our clients.

Never Be Satisfied

No matter how well you are performing, and your team is performing, you should never be satisfied. We can always get better. Once we think we are where we need to be, that's when complacency sets in. We need to always strive and work hard to get better every day, as individuals and as a group.

Coach for Improvement, Leaving Dignity Intact

We always want to treat our subordinates with respect, even when they have significant areas of opportunity. You can hold someone accountable without making it sound disrespectful or condescending. We learn how to stick with facts, explain things clearly, and tell them 'why' we need the behavior change, what's in it for them to improve (WIIFM), and why it's important to the client and our company to maintain excellent performance. We call this "explaining the 'why'".

Promote from Within

We want our front-line team members to see that there is significant career growth opportunity at ECE. We need to constantly develop the "next person up" so when projects grow, or new projects come in, high performing frontliners can grow their careers. We need to invest the time in identifying and developing high potential frontliners, so they are ready to grow when the time comes.

MISSION:

Our mission is to become the world's most employee-centric BPO. We take care of our people, and they take care of our clients' customers. We empower them to deliver extraordinary customer experience, driving mutual success to our clients and our business.

Introduction

ECEnterprises Group Manila, Inc. (hereafter ECE, ECE Consulting, or Company) operates in the interests of its customers, shareholders, and employees, by providing the best possible services and products. It is the responsibility of all employees to:

- Ensure the satisfaction of the Company's customers;
- Treat all individuals with respect;
- Be fair and consistent with all fellow employees; and
- Understand the Company's Employee Handbook.

This Company Employee Handbook has been designed and developed for all employees of the Company to assist it in carrying out these responsibilities successfully for the interest of the Company.

All employees are expected to be familiar with and abide by the policies in this Company Employee Handbook. It is made known to all employees upon their employment with the Company. All those with authority to do so have a duty to administer these policies fairly and consistently. It is the responsibility of supervisors / direct managers to communicate and distribute these policies and procedures to all employees. Copies of these policies are also made available and accessible to all employees via computer network.

If you have questions on employment laws or interpretation of any of the policies and procedures in this Company Employee Handbook, you may contact the Human Resources Department (HRD) or the Administrative Manager for clarification. In rare and exceptional circumstances, exceptions to policies may be made by the Management.

From time to time, policies and procedures in this Company Employee Handbook may be changed, amended or revoked, at any time, at the discretion of Management. All changes, amendments, or revocation of the policies and procedures in this Company Employee Handbook will be communicated to all employees immediately.

Part 1: General Employment Information

Section 1: Equal Employment Opportunity

It is the policy of the Company to provide equal employment opportunity to all employees and applicants for employment and not to discriminate on any basis prohibited by law, including race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, disability, marital status or veteran status. It is our intent and desire that equal employment opportunities will be provided in employment, recruitment, selection, compensation, benefits, promotion, demotion, layoff, termination and all other terms and conditions of employment. The President of the Company and all managerial personnel are committed to this policy and its enforcement.

Any employee(s) with questions or concerns about any type of discrimination in the workplace are encouraged to bring these to the attention of their immediate supervisor or the HRD.

Any employee who violates this policy or knowingly retaliates against an employee reporting or complaining of a violation of this policy shall be subject to immediate disciplinary action, up to and including dismissal. Complaints brought under this policy will be promptly investigated and handled with due regard for the privacy and respect of all involved.

Section 2: Harassment Policy

ECE will not tolerate harassment or intimidation of our employees on any basis prohibited by law, including race, color, sex, age, religion, national origin, handicap, disability, marital status, or veteran status. Moreover, any suggestions made to any employee that sexual favors will affect any term or condition of employment with the Company will not be tolerated. It is the policy of the Company that any harassment, including acts in creating a hostile work environment or any other discriminatory acts directed against our employees, will result in discipline, up to and including termination from employment. ECE also will not tolerate any such harassment of our employees by our clients or vendors.

For purposes of this policy, sexual harassment is defined as any type of sexually oriented conduct, whether intentional or not, that is unwelcome and has the purpose or effect of creating a work environment that is hostile, offensive or coercive. The following are examples of conduct that, depending upon the circumstances, may constitute sexual harassment:

- Unwelcome sexual jokes, language, epithets, advances or propositions;
- Written or oral abuse of a sexual nature, sexually degrading or vulgar words to describe an individual;
- The display of sexually suggestive objects, pictures, posters or cartoons;

- Unwelcome comments about an individual's body;
 - Asking questions about sexual conduct;
 - Unwelcome touching, leering, whistling, brushing against the body, or suggestive, insulting or obscene comments or gestures;
 - Demanding sexual favors in exchange for favorable reviews, assignments, promotions, or continued employment, or promises of the same.

Employees must bring any violation of this policy to the immediate attention of their supervisor or the Company President. ECE will thoroughly investigate all such claims with due regard for the privacy of the individuals involved. Any employee who knowingly retaliates against an employee who has reported workplace harassment or discrimination shall be subject to immediate disciplinary action, up to and including termination from employment.

Complaint Procedures

a. An employee, who believes that he or she has been a victim of harassment, may make a Complaint to the following, in order of preference:

- Immediate Supervisor/Team Leader
- Manager
- HRD

A prompt investigation of harassment complaints will be conducted.

b. The following actions should be taken to the extent possible upon receipt of the Complaint, including anonymous complaints, or the management's knowledge of possible harassment, whether a complaint was made:

- Carefully document the complaint or possible harassment.
- Document the alleged behavior and resolution desired by the complainant.
 - The complainant's desired resolution may aid the review process but will not dictate the final resolution.
 - The complainant's request not to investigate cannot be honored by management.
- Request the complainant to prepare a written statement describing the incident.
- Advise the complainant that an immediate investigation will be conducted.

- Notify the HRD to secure advice and to determine whether any immediate steps are needed to alleviate the situation for the complainant.
 - Counsel on investigations may be sought from external counsel

Committee on Decorum

Committee formed by the Company to investigate sexual or gender-based harassment complaints in the Workplace.

- Project Managers
- Operations Managers
- Assistant Managers
- HRD
- Clinic

It is the policy of the Company that:

- Harassment will not be tolerated or condoned under any circumstances
- Employees can express concern about harassment to their supervisor or to the HRD.
- All harassment complaints will be treated seriously, empathically, quickly and privately to the extent possible. All complaints will be investigated fairly and impartially.
- The determination of whether harassment has occurred will be made after considering all the facts involved. Any employee who is found to have violated this policy will be subject to appropriate corrective action up to and including termination from employment.
- Employees will not be subjected to any retaliation as a consequence of bringing a complaint to the attention of management or for acting as a witness in an investigation. Any employee found guilty of such actions will face corrective action up to and including termination from employment.

A component of this policy is sexual and gender-based sexual harassment. Sexual harassment has been defined by law as either Work, Education, or Training-related. It involves employees, managers, supervisors, agents of the employer, instructor, trainer, or any other person, who have influence or moral ascendancy over another in a work environment, demands, requests or otherwise requires any sexual favor from the other, regardless of whether the demand, request or requirement for submission is accepted by the object of said Act.

On the other hand, gender based sexual harassment is committed either on the streets and public places, online, and in the Workplace, educational and training institutions. Gender based sexual harassment is committed regardless of influence or moral ascendancy by one over another. Finally, gender based sexual harassment is committed through unwanted or uninvited sexual actions or remarks against any person regardless of motive.

It is the policy of the Company that all employees should enjoy good working relationships. This means that everyone should feel comfortable in the Workplace and that individual differences should be respected. An important part of good working relationships is that everyone must be able to work in an environment free from harassment in any form.

Harassment in the Workplace can take many forms. It can be overt or subtle, direct or indirect, verbal or nonverbal, and physical or otherwise.

Some forms of verbal harassment include, but not limited to:

- Sexual or suggestive remarks
- Making fun of someone
- Imitating someone's accent
- Propositions (sexual invitations)
- Spreading rumors
- Obscene and/ or unsolicited telephone calls, letters, email messages or faxes
- Repeated unwelcome invitations
- Offensive jokes
- Suggestive jokes or leers
- Repeated questions about personal life
- Threats or insults
- The use of language that is not suitable in the Workplace
- Name-calling and/or catcalling

Some forms of non-verbal harassment include, but are not limited to:

- Putting sexually suggestive, offensive or degrading/ insulting material on walls, computer screensavers, wallpapers, emails, communication channels
- Unwelcome practical jokes
- Displaying or circulating racist, sexist cartoons or literature
- Mimicking someone with disability
- Following someone home from work without their consent
- Offensive hand or body gestures
- Unnecessarily leaning over someone

- Sending material that could be regarded as offensive through computer, fax, or email, and through any business communication channels
 - Wolf whistling

Some forms of physical harassment include, but are not limited to:

- Unwelcome physical contact (pinching, patting, brushing up against a person, touching, kissing and hugging)
- Indecent or sexual assault or attempted assault
- Pushing, shoving or jostling
- Putting hand or an object into someone's pocket

Section 3: Employment Classification

The Company shall maintain a clear set of guidelines on employment classification as a guide for setting security of tenure and formulating compensation packages for everyone.

Each employee will be given an employment status that reflects the impact of several factors such as length of service, performance, and acquired skills during their progress in the Company.

A. Probationary Employment

An employee will be required to undergo a probationary period of up to six (6) months, equivalent to 180 days, to enable the company to determine their fitness and capacity to work and achieve the goals of the organization. It is during this period that the company will determine whether the employees' overall performance and work behavior met the criteria to merit a permanent regular position at the end of the probationary period.

At the time of an employees' engagement, the Management shall make known to the employee the standards by which he/she will qualify as a regular employee. The standards shall include, but shall not be limited to, work performance, attendance, attitude, and conduct. During this period, both the employee and the Company will determine the suitability and interest for the work which the employee has been hired to do. At any time during the probationary period, the employee or the Company may terminate employment based on set and agreed separation or termination guidelines in accordance with existing laws and prevailing jurisprudence.

To ensure that the employee fits the requirements for regularization, he/she will be evaluated on the third and fifth month of the probationary period of employment or as often as necessary as the company sees fit. If the performance standards and other factors are met, the regular status is awarded at the end of the 6-month probationary period. Otherwise, employment will be terminated accordingly within a reasonable period prior to the expiration of the 6-month or 180-day probationary period.

Extension of probationary period will be dealt with according to the labor laws.

B. Regular employment

Employee is deemed regular if he or she has satisfactorily met the requirements and standards of the Company and has satisfied the requirements for passing the probationary period.

An employment shall be deemed to be regular where the employee has been engaged to perform activities which are usually necessary or desirable in the usual business or trade of the employer, unless otherwise agreed upon by the parties.

C. Project employment

Project Employment is employment that is fixed for a specific project or undertaking the completion or termination of which has been determined at the time of the engagement of the employee. Project employment shall be terminated at the completion of the project or the phase of the project for which an employee is hired.

Section 4: Personnel Records

It is the responsibility of every employee to promptly notify the company of any changes in their personal data. This includes the correct address, telephone number, marital status, dependents and educational accomplishments. Without any proper notice, the record on file of every employee is deemed correct, current and updated for purposes of serving notices, among others.

Section 5: Employee Solicitation and Distribution

The Company's official social communication platforms and bulletin boards are used to provide necessary communication and information to our employees. These online platforms are only for the Company's use to provide business related notices. Only designated management or HRD representatives are allowed to post items on the bulletin board. The Company highly discourages postings, of any kind, unrelated to business.

In order to minimize distractions that could affect the performance of its employees, the Company, as a general rule, does not permit the solicitation or distribution of materials of any kind. Solicitation or distribution of materials of any kind is discouraged in the Workplace. Solicitation includes, but not limited to, the sale of products or raffle tickets, requests for donations or contributions, solicitation for lotteries or contests, and solicitation for membership in support of any organization or cause.

Section 6: Dress Code, Attire and Grooming Policy

ECE strives to maintain a workplace environment that is well functioning and free from unnecessary distractions and annoyances. As part of that effort, the company requires employees to maintain a neat and clean appearance that is appropriate for the workplace setting and for the work being performed.

To that end, ECE department heads may determine and enforce guidelines for workplace-appropriate attire and grooming for their areas.

Inappropriate Clothing Attire:

- Revealing and provocative clothing or outfits such as plunging necklines, see-through clothing, tank tops, spaghetti straps, muscle shirts, midriffs, cropped tops and high-slit skirts;
- Clothing that has inappropriate messaging; and
- Shorts above the knees, sandos/sleeveless, sport jerseys, ripped jeans, slippers, crocs (exemption to the rule shall apply only during typhoons or conditions that require to wear slippers on the way to the office)

Part 2: Attendance and Timekeeping

Section 1: Attendance at Work

Each employee is important to the overall success of our operation. Consequently, an employee is expected to report to work on time on the agreed shift, i.e., time and day of work.

The company depends on its employees to be at work during the period and locations scheduled. Note that the attendance record, including excessive absenteeism and/or tardiness is a part in the assessment of the overall performance rating, may be included during the review and may be considered for disciplinary action up to and including termination, especially if tardiness and/or absenteeism has become gross and habitual. The corresponding penalties for absenteeism and/or tardiness are indicated in the Code of Conduct. It must be noted that probationary employees who received any disciplinary action whether relating to attendance or performance may not be regularized.

If an employee is unable to report for work, it is important that he/she uses the Zoho Attendance notification process or, in the absence of internet connection, calls the supervisor or immediate superior as soon as possible prior to starting time. State the reason for the absence and disclose the expected date of return. This procedure is intended to enable Management to make the necessary adjustments to assure production continues and the work is covered. Absence without notification will incur a negative consequence and may result in absence without official leave.

IMPORTANT NOTE: It is each employee's responsibility to keep the Company informed as to their current personal email and physical addresses.

The company created an Attendance Point System (APS) scheme to address all attendance issues. Please refer to the memo for all information regarding APS.

A. Absenteeism

- Excessive and unreasonable absenteeism in one (1) calendar month shall be a cause for disciplinary action possibly up to dismissal.
- Absence from work for three days without proper notification shall be tagged as Absence Without Leave (AWOL) and shall be a valid cause for termination of employment. Absence means leave credits are not yet available or leave credits have been exhausted.
- An employee who is tagged as AWOL based on the above description shall be sent a Return to Work Order (RTWO) on the third day to his last known recorded residential address, by electronic mail sent through his/her official company email or the employee's personal email the address reflected on his/her employment record whereby the employee shall be required to report to HRD not later than 24 hours and explain in writing the reason for going on AWOL. If management finds such an explanation valid, such an employee may be reinstated; otherwise, such an employee will be terminated accordingly.

- If an employee does not respond to the RTWO within 5 calendar days upon receipt or the latest unsuccessful delivery attempt, then the employee will be considered as having abandoned his/her work and as such, proper termination procedures will be undertaken.

B. Leave / Paid Leave

- a. All employees are required to submit their vacation leave application seven (7) calendar days prior to the actual leave date. The leave application must be approved prior to taking the leave, otherwise leave without express approval from the manager will be considered as unpaid leave.
- b. A sick leave application must be completed on the day an employee returns to work and is accompanied by a valid medical certificate.

C. Notification Procedure for Tardiness/Absenteeism Due to Emergency or Justifiable Circumstance

- An employee who will unexpectedly be late or absent from work due to emergency or unavoidable but justifiable circumstances must notify their supervisor at least two (2) hours prior to the start of the work shift and likewise, provide the reason for the tardiness or absence.
- Employees should initiate the notification through Zoho attendance notification or call their respective "bat phones" at least 2 hours before and 2 hours after that s/he will be out of work.
- Failure to properly communicate tardiness or absence and/or to follow the notification procedure will be considered as an AWOL of which, will be meted out with the corresponding and/or appropriate disciplinary action.
- Any medical and dental appointments which are not emergency in nature should be scheduled outside the assigned work hours or shift; otherwise, they may be considered as absences without pay.

D. No-Call, No-Show

An employee who fails to observe the notification procedure in section C above and who fails to inform their Supervisor of their tardiness or absence from work at least two (2) hours before and two (2) hours after the start of their shift shall be considered to be on No-Call, No-Show (NCNS), hence absent, and will be dealt with accordingly.

Section 2: Workdays and Hours of Work

The Company generally follows a work schedule of 40 hours per week. All employees must clock in a minimum of eight (8) hours in the office daily, excluding the lunch break. The Company also has accounts with different work hours set-up. All employees are required to report for work on time in accordance with each individual's schedule and be ready to perform the duties of their positions.

A. Workweek and Rest Days

The standard work week schedule is commonly five (5) working days and two (2) rest days. However, this may differ based on department needs; thus, rest days may change accordingly.

B. Overtime

Based on normal work schedules, hours during which the employee performs work beyond the minimum forty (40) hours weekly requirement is considered overtime work. Non-productive hours (vacation, holiday, paid time off, etc) will not count toward overtime compensation. All requests for overtime work must be authorized in writing by the supervisor or department manager.

Employees who do overtime work (work rendered in excess of eight (8) hours under normal work schedules) will be compensated in accordance with existing laws.

Employees may volunteer for OT by following the procedures established to solicit overtime. Overtime will be rewarded based on the needs of the business. It is the employee's responsibility to ensure that the request for overtime has been approved before they are authorized to work it.

Employees working overtime are subject to the same policies and procedures that govern regular scheduled hours, regardless of the length of the shift. Employees who are late for the beginning of an approved overtime shift, or employees who defer from working the shift without approval, will be marked absent or late and treated in accordance with existing laws.

If the need of the business changes prior to the start of an employee's overtime shift, and the overtime is no longer required, employees will be released from the shift. Every attempt will be made to notify employees scheduled to work overtime prior to the start of the overtime shift. If the company's overtime requirements change after the start of the shift, employees will be permitted to complete the shift.

C. Undertime

An employee who intends to leave his work before the end of his work schedule/shift should seek approval from his supervisor/department manager. The employee may opt to apply for a half-day leave if he/she was able to complete the first half of his/her work schedule.

Failure to file for undertime is enough grounds for corrective action as stated in the Code of Conduct.

D. Holidays

The following Philippine Holidays are observed by the Company:

Legal Holidays	Special Holidays
New Year's Day – January 1 Maundy Thursday – Movable Date Good Friday – Movable Date Araw ng Kagitingan – April 9 Labor Day – May 1 Independence Day – June 12 National Heroes Day – Last Monday of August Bonifacio Day – November 30 Christmas Day – December 25 Rizal Day – December 30 Eid al-Fitr – Movable Date Eidul Adha – Movable Date	Ninoy Aquino Day – August 21 All Saints Day – November 1 Feast of the Immaculate Conception of Mary – December 8 Last Day of the Year – December 31 Other local holidays announced by The President of the Philippines

Non-Exempt employees who render holiday work will be compensated in accordance with existing laws.

Section 3: Timekeeping Procedure

It is important for all employees to log-in and to log-out using their designated devices accordingly. Altering, falsifying or tampering with records, or recording time on another employee's time record, shall constitute time fraud and is prohibited and may result in disciplinary action up to and including termination, and the Company may avail itself of any and all applicable legal actions.

Any errors in the attendance should be reported immediately to management, who will attempt to correct legitimate errors.

Section 4: Perfect Attendance

Employees with perfect attendance, zero tardiness, no undertime, overbreak and no filed sick leave for the entire year will receive an additional 20 hours leave credits as an incentive for being punctual. The additional leave will add up to his/her leave credit the following year. The same will not be convertible to cash.

Section 5: Critical Workdays

Critical workdays are defined as days where the clients expect the agents to come to work despite the declaration of holidays both in the Philippines or the client's location.

For purposes of US-based clients, the following are the critical workdays:

1. Memorial Day
2. Independence Day (July 4th)
3. Labor Day
4. Veteran's Day
5. Thanksgiving Day
6. Christmas Eve Day (December 24th)
7. Christmas Day (December 25th)
8. New Year's Eve Day (December 31st)
9. New Year's Day (January 1st)
10. Any other day as declared by the Clients per business requirement

The Philippine based holidays are governed by all the applicable sections of the Philippine Labor Code and the Company will compensate employees as required by such applicable laws.

The Philippine holidays depend on the government's yearly declaration, as enumerated under paragraph F of this section.

Critical workdays may also include the following:

1. 1 Day before and after the actual pay roll out.
2. Actual pay roll-out.
3. The day before and after a regular or special holiday.
4. The day before and after the agents rest days.
5. The day before or after the agents approved Vacation leave

Part 3: Statutory and Mandatory Benefits

The Company grants all leaves and benefits as required by law, including but not limited to maternity leave, paternity leave, solo parent leave, battered woman leave, special leave benefits for women, and any additional applicable mandatory leaves and benefits.

Section 1: 13th Month Pay

Regardless of employment status, the employee will be entitled to the 13th month pay which will be paid no later than December 24 of each year. This will be given on a pro-rata basis if the employee has been with the Company for at least one month.

The “basic salary” of an employee for the purpose of computing the 13th month pay shall include all remuneration or earnings paid by his employer for services rendered.

The 13th month pay shall NOT include allowances and monetary benefits which are not considered or integrated as part of the regular or basic salary, such as:

- cash equivalent of unused vacation and sick leave credit
- overtime premium
- night differential
- holiday pay

For employees who have worked for the Company for less than one year, the following formula should be used:

$$\frac{\text{Basic Monthly Salary} \times \text{No. of Months of Service}}{12}$$

Section 2: Social Security System (SSS)

Social security benefits are composed of a package of benefits under the Social Security Program in the event of death, disability, sickness, maternity, old age and unemployment. Work-related death, disability and sickness also receive benefits under the Employees' Compensation (EC) Programs. Basically, social security provides replacement for income lost on account of the aforementioned contingencies.

In accordance with the law, all employees are registered with the SSS. Both the employee and the Company will pay a monthly premium contribution to the SSS, the rate of which will depend on the employee's "gross" pay. The employee's contributions are paid through salary deductions.

Section 3: PhilHealth

The National Health Insurance Program (NHIP) is a compulsory health insurance program of the government established to provide universal health insurance coverage and ensure affordable, acceptable, available and accessible health care services for all citizens of the Philippines. Every month, employees are required to pay a certain amount, which is deducted from the employee's salary. Likewise, the company pays an equal contribution on the employee's behalf.

PhilHealth is implementing a unified benefit package for all PhilHealth members, which includes the following categories of personal health services:

Inpatient care

- Room and board;
- Services of health care professionals;
- Diagnostic, laboratory, and other medical examination services;
- Use of surgical or medical equipment and facilities;

- Employees shall be required to submit a medical certificate for at least two (2) consecutive days for any health-related leave or based on the management's discretion/needs.
- Any sick days in excess of the allowable leave credits will not be compensated and shall be treated as unpaid leave.
- Any unused Sick Leave credits shall be converted to cash.
- The Management reserves the right to terminate employee's services due to excessive absences.

C. Special Rules on Sick leave

- Employees who went on leave due to sickness should submit Zoho Attendance Notification, call/advise (text messages are allowed provided the immediate supervisor confirms receipt) their Bat phones or respective immediate supervisor within the day of their absence; otherwise, they will be considered AWOL on the said date.
- Employees with no SL credits are also covered by the previous policy resulting in corresponding unpaid leaves.

- SL due to emergency cases such as accidents, fire, sudden death of immediate relatives (i.e. parents, siblings, or grandparents), and similar circumstances will be considered upon presentation of necessary documents or proof justifying the said emergency upon reporting to work.
 - Employees who will present false or tampered documents will be subject to disciplinary action and may be meted with a penalty including dismissal from employment.
 - Department heads or immediate superiors who will tolerate or approve “emergency” leave applications without necessary evidence pursuant to paragraph 3 above will be sanctioned accordingly.
 - Employees under suspension are not allowed to use or apply for SL credits.
 - Employees required to go on extended medical leave must present signed documentation or proof indicating the reason and expected length of absence. Following full usage of all leave credits for any current year, the employee will incur appropriate salary deductions. Please refer to the Clinic MEDLOA Guidelines for complete details
 - The employee who avails of the extended medical leave shall be required to submit a valid Fit-to-Work certificate upon his/her return from his/her absences signed by his/her attending physician. The employee must also undergo reassessment by the Company physician to determine physical fitness to work. Said requisites must be done or submitted prior to logging in for work.
 - The utilization of sick leaves for recreation or vacation purposes shall not be allowed. If such misrepresentation becomes known to the Company or later revealed to the Company, the employee shall be subject to disciplinary measures, or such misrepresentation may be a cause for termination of the employee.
 - Employees should seek medical attention from doctors and clinics accredited by the company’s HMO or government hospitals.
 - The company reserves the right to verify the authenticity of the medical certificates or fit-to-work certificates presented by the employees.
 - Upon submission of the medical certificate, the company shall verify such documents from the HMO accredited hospital or government hospital.
 - Sick leave accrual for all outgoing employees will be prorated based on active employment and supersede the advance crediting of leaves awarded every January for eligible employees. There will be a deduction from their final pay for the leaves taken in excess of the prorated credits.

Section 3: Half-Day Leave

A. Definition of Terms

Half-Day Leave is a company-initiated benefit wherein time off equivalent to four (4) or five (5) continuous hours depending on the work schedule shall be considered as paid leave. These half-day leaves will be applied against any available sick leave or vacation leave, if any. If no sick leave or vacation leave is available, the half-day leave will be unpaid time off.

B. Special Rules on Half-day leave

- Employees under suspension are not allowed to use / apply their VL credits
- The Management has the right and/or discretion to reschedule one's leave.

Section 4: Bereavement Leave

A. Definition of Terms

Bereavement Leave is a company-initiated benefit wherein an employee is entitled to an additional three (3) days paid leave in addition to their existing and current vacation and sick leave credits.

B. Eligibility of Bereavement leave

Bereavement leave can be availed by employees regardless of employment status if an immediate family member (as defined in section C.2. below) passes away.

C. Special Rules on Bereavement leave

- Employees shall inform HRD of the bereavement and shall present a copy of death certificate to HRD in order to be credited as paid leave.
- An employee's immediate family includes his/her spouse, children, parents, siblings, parents-in-law, grandparents, and guardian/s, provided that a supporting document is submitted showing the employee's relationship with the deceased.
- Time taken for the purpose of bereavement will not be counted against the employee when determining Attendance Incentive eligibility. Unused Bereavement Leave credits are not convertible to cash.

Section 5: Solo Parent Leave Benefits Policy

Parental Leave of not more than seven (7) working days per year shall be granted to any solo parent employee who has rendered service for at least six (6) months. Parental Leave shall mean leave benefits granted to a solo parent to enable him/ her to perform parental duties and responsibilities where physical presence is required.

A solo parent is any individual who falls under the following categories:

- A woman who gives birth as a result of rape and other crimes against chastity even without a final conviction of the offender: Provided, That the mother keeps and raises the child;
- Parent who was left solo or alone with the responsibility of parenthood due to death of spouse;
- Parent who was left solo or alone with the responsibility of parenthood while the spouse is detained or is serving sentence for a criminal conviction for at least one (1) year;
- Parent who was left solo or alone with the responsibility of parenthood due to physical and/or mental incapacity of spouse as certified by a public medical practitioner;
- Parent who was left solo or alone with the responsibility of parenthood due to legal separation or de facto separation from spouse for at least one (1) year, as long as he/she is entrusted with the custody of the children;
- Parent who was left solo or alone with the responsibility of parenthood due to declaration of nullity or annulment of marriage as decreed by a court or by a church as long as he/she is entrusted with the custody of the children;
- Parent who was left solo or alone with the responsibility of parenthood due to abandonment of spouse for at least one (1) year;
- Unmarried mother/father who preferred to keep and rear her/his child/children instead of having others care for them or give them up to a welfare institution;
- Any other person who solely provides parental care and support to a child or children, provided said person is duly licensed as a foster parent by the DSWD or duly appointed legal guardian by the Court;
- Any family member who assumes the responsibility of head of family as a result of the death, abandonment, disappearance or prolonged absence of the parents or solo parent.

Employees who are eligible to the Solo Parent Leave Benefits Policy are those who have been issued an Eligibility identification card by the Department of Social Welfare and Development. The Human Resources Department should be informed by the employees if such eligibility has been granted.

A change in the status or circumstance of the parent claiming benefits under this law, such that he/she is no longer left alone with the responsibility of parenthood, shall terminate his/her eligibility for these benefits. Failure to do so shall merit corrective action up, including termination from employment as may be warranted under the circumstances.

Solo Parent leave is not convertible to its cash equivalent.

Section 6: Maternity Leave Benefits Policy

All covered female workers, regardless of civil status or the legitimacy of her child, shall be granted one hundred five (105) days maternity leave with full pay and an option to extend for an additional thirty (30) days without pay. Provided that in case the worker qualifies as a solo parent under the Solo Parents' Welfare Act, the worker shall be granted an additional fifteen (15) days maternity leave with full pay.

The maternity leave is taken with pay as a Social Security benefit administered by the Company. The Company advances the employee's maternity benefit and recovers the said benefit from the SSS. The daily maternity benefit is equivalent to one hundred percent (100%) of the employee's average salary credit (SS Standards) for one hundred five (105) days regardless of whether she gave birth via cesarean section or natural delivery, while maternity leave of sixty (60) days with full pay shall be granted for miscarriage or emergency termination of pregnancy. An additional maternity leave of thirty (30) days, without pay, can be availed of, at the option of the female worker, subject to the following conditions:

- That the employer shall be given due notice, in writing, at least forty-five (45) days before the end of her maternity leave
- That no prior notice shall be necessary in the event of a medical emergency, but subsequent notice shall be given to the immediate supervisor.

Section 7: Paternity Leave Benefits Policy

Paternity Leave of seven (7) working days with full pay is granted to a married male employee, regardless of his status in the Company, for the first four (4) deliveries of the legitimate spouse with whom he is cohabiting. The employee may avail themselves of this leave under the following conditions:

- He is an employee at the time of the delivery of his child.
- He is cohabiting with his legitimate spouse at the time she gives birth or suffers a miscarriage.
- He has applied for paternity leave; and
- His wife has given birth or suffered a miscarriage

Paternity leave is not convertible to its cash equivalent.

Section 8: Leave for Victims of Violence Against Women and Their Children (VAWC)

Leave for victims of violence against women and their children refers to the paid leave granted to a female employee who is a victim of violence against women and their children allowing her to attend to medical and legal concerns at any time during the application of any protection order, investigation, prosecution and/or trial of the criminal case.

Violence Against Women and Their Children (VAWC)

VAWC to any act or a series of acts committed by any person against a woman who is his wife, former wife, or against a woman with whom the person has or had a sexual or dating relationship, or with whom he has a common child, or against her child whether legitimate or illegitimate, within or without the family abode, which result in or is likely to result in physical, sexual, psychological harm or suffering, or economic abuse including threats of such acts, battery, assault, coercion, harassment or arbitrary deprivation of liberty.

Victims of VAWC are entitled to take a paid leave of absence up to ten (10) days in addition to other paid leaves provided in this Handbook. Such leave is extendible when the necessity arises as specified in their barangay protection order, temporary protection order and/or permanent protection order.

To be entitled to this benefit, the victim-employee only needs to present a certification from the barangay chairman/punong barangay, barangay councilor/barangay kagawad, prosecutor, or Clerk of Court, as the case may be, that an action relative to the matter is pending.

VAWC leave is not convertible to cash and shall not be cumulative.

Section 9: Special Leave for Women

Special leave for women refers to the paid leave granted to a female employee allowing her to recuperate following surgery caused by gynecological disorders for a period of up to two (2) months.

The special leave may be available for every instance of surgery due to gynecological disorder for a maximum total period of two (2) months or sixty (60) calendar days per year.

Conditions for Entitlement:

- She has rendered at least six (6) months continuous aggregate employment service.
- She has filed an application for special leave with the Company within seven (7) calendar days from the expected date of surgery or within such period as may be provided by company rules and regulations or collective bargaining agreement; and
- She has undergone surgery due to gynecological disorders as certified by a licensed physician.

The special leave shall be non-cumulative and non-convertible to cash.

Section 10: Medical Benefits

All employees shall be entitled to the Company's Medical and Health Insurance upon regularization, subject to the guidelines provided by the appointed service provider.

Section 11: Night Differential Pay

Night shifts pay is given as a premium for working at a time when the employee is supposed to sleep and rest in accordance with the law of nature.

Night Shift Differential is equivalent to 10% of an employee's regular wage for each hour of work performed between 10:00 pm and 6:00am of the following day in accordance with existing laws.

Part 5: Policy on Home-Based Work

The Company provides a home-based work setup to protect the rights of workers and promote their welfare following technological development that has opened up alternative avenues for employees to carry out their work such as telecommuting, and other flexible work arrangements.

The Company ensures to create measures in order to prevent home-based employees from being isolated from the rest of the working community by giving the former the opportunity to meet with colleagues on a regular basis, and by allowing access to relevant company information in relation to his/her duties and responsibilities.

Section 1: Definition of Terms

- Home-based site - a facility designed for the purpose of performing the duties agreed between the Company and the employee located in a private dwelling or part thereof.
- Home-based employee - an employee who works at the home-based site.
- Home-based work - regular performance of duties at the home-based site as agreed between the Company and employee conducted within the specified work hours, unless otherwise approved.

Section 2: Guidelines (Refer to WFH Guidelines Memorandum)

- Home-based employees are hired on a voluntary basis upon such terms and conditions as the employer and employee mutually agreed upon, and as the employee explicitly consent as set forth within their employment agreement.
- Employees must acknowledge the Zoho Item Accountability Form for the PC issued by ECE's Information Technology (IT) specialist.
- Home-based employees must have appropriate internet connectivity at all times. 35 mbps (both download and upload) is the minimum requirement for non-voice accounts, while 50 (both download and upload) is the minimum requirement for voice accounts. Without the proper internet connection at home, an employee will be required to work in the office or find an alternative work location.
- Home-based employees may be remotely monitored through online teleconference, video or audio calls, and/or through any messaging applications using his/her laptop, computer, mobile or any other gadget. A home-based employee may be remotely monitored through their computers and will be required to undergo the monthly remote PC scan. The employee is prohibited from using the office-issued PC for non-work-related matters, activities and undertakings that would require the storage of personal files and documents in the office-issued PC.

- A home-based working arrangement will only be entered into on a voluntary basis as initiated by the Company. An employee cannot be directed to work from home except in emergency cases (i.e. power outage) and the Company is under no obligation to approve a request from an employee to enter into a working from home arrangement.
- A home-based working arrangement will only be considered valid upon formal approval by the Management. In the absence of authorization from the supervisor to work from home, employees are required to report to work at the office at all times. Home-based employees must also consent to the work arrangement before starting home-based work.
- Home-based employees must be available for contact by the client, supervisor and co-employees directly involved in the performance of his/her duties during the specified hours of home-based work.
- Home-based employees are required to advise their supervisor/team leader, through Attendance Cliq channel and/or the Client's systems if required by the Client, if they are going to take a break/lunch, or at any time the employee will be out of contact for more than 15 minutes. Home-based employees may notify their designated point of contact (POC), Real-Time Analyst (RTA), Team Leader or Quality Assurance manager ONLY IF the immediate supervisor/team leader is unavailable or on leave.
- In the event of power outages, connectivity issues or any downtime, home-based employees should notify (text messages are allowed provided the immediate supervisor confirms receipt) their respective immediate supervisors of the situation and when resumption of work has taken place. A maximum of one (1) hour downtime is allowed for home-based employees to resume normal operations based on client's discretion. Otherwise, home-based employees are expected to go to the office or find another work location where they can resume work. Downtime and travel time will be considered outside of rendered work hours.
- Home-based employees must use their company-issued desktop at all times except during these instances and when they got approval from IT and their Immediate Supervisor:
- All WFH employees must comply with IT's directive regarding the monthly maintenance of the company-issued device.
 - All home-based devices are subject to proper usage by the home-based employee as prescribed by the company handbook.
 - Home-based employees are accountable to the functionality and care for the home-based devices

- Damages to home-based devices, whether intentional or involuntary, shall be the accountability of the home-based employee. Normal wear and tear shall be the exception upon the examination of IT Specialists.
 - Damages and issues must be reported to any IT specialist immediately for examination.
 - Software settings shall be maintained to the defaults set by the IT Department, unless otherwise instructed to be set to another value by either the management or the client.
 - Software installations must be authorized by the management. Unauthorized software installations are prohibited and sanctionable.
 - Troubleshooting
 - Troubleshooting of home-based devices shall be done by IT provided the home-based employee has reported the issue and a Zoho IT Ticket has been filed.
 - Troubleshooting shall be exhaustively done remotely
 - Upon arriving at the conclusion that the devices cannot be fixed remotely, IT Specialists must update the supervising IT and provide a course of action to the home-based employee as prescribed by the Provisions on the Limitations of Home-based work devices.
 - Home-based employees must report to the office as required by their supervisor for client site visits, training, work transition or any activity where the employees' physical attendance is necessary, unless the period of such activity conflicts with the employees' working hours.
 - A home-based-working arrangement may be discontinued or altered by giving a minimum of 14-day notice by the company in response to a change in duties required pursuant to business needs. Home-based to office-based work transition should be communicated to the RTA and IT specialists.
 - Home-based work is a privilege extended to well performing employees and Management reserves its right to revoke the said privilege upon the failure of the employee to satisfy the minimum requirement of the home-based program.

Part 6: Performance Appraisal

Each employee is evaluated on a monthly basis through their monthly account business scorecard and a yearly evaluation for annualization increase. The review process will measure how an employee assigned to a particular position performs following the basic standard performance set by the Company.

The review process will give an opportunity for the manager and the employee to discuss the necessity to improve one's performance in relation to the employee's assigned tasks, duties and responsibilities. The employee will be appraised by their immediate supervisor who is aware of the job description and daily performance that the employee's role requires.

All employees are expected to pass the monthly evaluation with the specific criteria provided by the account or department. The employee is given a determined time frame to improve his/her performance based on the accounts performance policy.

Serious and repeated unsatisfactory performance will be considered as "gross inefficiency" or "gross and habitual neglect of duty" on the part of the employee. Continuous poor performance ratings or gross inefficiency may lead to an employee's dismissal analogous to gross and habitual neglect of duty which is a just cause for termination of employment.

Part 7: Code of Conduct

Section 1: Rationale

The company is entering into a new age where it is required not only to keep pace with the rapid developments in the industry but also to do business in a more competitive environment if it is to survive and grow. To be able to do so, it must be able to continue to always provide excellent service to its customers. The company recognizes that such a goal is possible only with the continuous and unrelenting support of a highly professionalized and disciplined workforce.

It is for the purpose of creating and maintaining a highly professionalized and disciplined workforce that this Code of Conduct (Code) is adopted. It is meant to prescribe work ethics and standards for the employees of the Company not only to promote higher productivity and enhance and safeguard the corporate image of the Company but more importantly, to create a safer and more orderly workplace.

While the Code defines the offenses as well as the corresponding penalties thereto, its overall intent is designed to prevent infractions rather than penalize the employees.

Section 2: Standard of Conduct

In any established organization, there is a need for a system of rules, regulations, policies, standards and procedures to regulate the conduct of employees based on accepted norms of honesty, integrity, efficiency and morality. In enumerating the prohibited acts and omissions, this code attempts to set only the minimum acceptable standard of conduct expected of all company officers and employees. The company reserves the right to sanction such acts and omissions not enumerated herein but considered prejudicial to the interest of the Company and other employees.

The provisions of this Code of Conduct are divided into the following major groups:

A. Provisions on Performance of Duties

Employees are expected to do their assigned work with utmost efficiency and dedication to duty, and with the highest degree of excellence, professionalism and skill. In this connection, all employees, except when directed otherwise, are required to report for work at the office and be punctual and regular in their attendance. Excessive absenteeism and tardiness shall constitute gross and habitual neglect of duties.

In accordance with existing laws and regulations, the company may implement changes in the work schedule, including but not limited to work/account assignment, work schedule and workload to carry out its business objectives. In this regard, all employees are expected to comply with company directives in the implementation of these changes.

In keeping with its mandate to continuously develop and improve its collective and individual performances, the company shall evaluate the performance of the employees on a regular basis. The company shall act in accordance with the results of such evaluations.

B. Provisions on Proper Conduct and Decorum

Employees should always conduct themselves with proper decorum within or outside the company premises in order to protect the good name of the Company as well as to merit and maintain the confidence not only of Company's clients or customers but the public in general.

While no uniform is prescribed for security and identification purposes, all employees may be required to wear their company-issued identification cards at all times.

C. Provisions on Honesty

In the Company's business, honesty is of paramount importance. Hence, all employees are expected to be honest, truthful and upright in the performance of their work, in the handling of Company funds and property, and in their dealings with their fellow employees, the Company, Company clients and suppliers.

Employees shall not engage directly or indirectly in any form of dishonesty or fraud nor conceal any acts nor facilitate or aid in the commission thereof. Employees are expected to always act professionally. Employees may not solicit Company clients at any time. Employees may not accept any offers made directly by clients in circumvention of the client's agreement with the Company. If an offer is made to an Employee by a client, the Employee is expected to notify their manager of such an offer immediately.

Violation of this provision is a very serious offense and may lead to employee's dismissal due to insubordination or willful disobedience of the Company's lawful orders.

D. Provisions on use and Care of Company Property

Employees are expected to consider the interest of the Company and take good care of its goods and properties. Employees are expected to use and handle Company property and equipment with care and prevent their loss and pilferage.

E. Provisions on Health Safety and Security

Health, safety and security are priorities of the Company. Employees are expected to keep their working places clean and safe. In this connection, all employees are expected to comply with all housekeeping and safety rules, regulations and procedures. Employees are also required to abide by the security regulations of the Company.

Occupational Health and Safety

The Company is committed to ensuring a safe and healthy work environment for all employees. Management achieves this through the following ways:

- Providing and maintaining equipment and systems which are safe and without risks to health;
- Supplying the information and instruction, training and supervision necessary to ensure the health and safety at work of all employees;
- Managing a Workplace in a safe condition, which includes maintaining safe entrances and exits;
- Ensuring the existence of the appropriate worker's insurance coverage;
- Maintaining a safety program conforming to the highest safety practices;
- Ensuring that when a question arises about productivity and safety, safety will have first priority; and
- Being responsible and accountable for the safety of each employee under its direction.

Employees have a responsibility to take reasonable care for the health and safety of themselves and others in the Workplace. Employees ought to recognize that injuries are preventable. Employees must take reasonable care to prevent them. All employees are expected to:

- Maintain a safe work environment. All employees are expected to follow the guidelines of the Occupational Health and Safety Policy as well as comply with all signs, instructions, and safety standards;
- Immediately report to management all work-related illnesses and injuries, no matter how slight;
- Avoid interfering with or misusing equipment provided for employee's health, safety or welfare;
- Comply with a reasonable request to assist in giving aid or preventing a risk to health and safety. In addition, employees shall not obstruct attempts to give aid or attempts to prevent a serious risk to the health and safety of an employee in the Workplace;
- Act in a professional manner at all times; horseplay of any kind will not be tolerated;
- Observe good housekeeping practices;
- Be properly trained and receive authorization before operating any machines or equipment;
- Keep all ingress, aisles, and exits clear and accessible;
- Report any defects or malfunctions in machines or equipment immediately and without delay to the management;
- Follow proper lifting and handling methods at all times. When moving very heavy or awkward equipment or materials, employees should ask for assistance or use power equipment; and
- Be alert to any unsafe condition that could result in injury to employees. All unsafe conditions are to be reported immediately to management.

These lists are included for illustration only and are not all-inclusive. Particularly, this list does not include those safety items which are considered common sense safety issues.

Violence Prevention Policy

The Company has zero tolerance for violence. If any employee commits or displays any act of violence or makes threats of violence in the Workplace, the penalty of dismissal from employment shall be imposed subject to the requirements specified under the Corrective Action Guidelines hereof.

The Company defines Violence to include inflicting physical harm to another, shoving, pushing, harassment, intimidation, coercion, brandishing weapons, and threats or talks of violence.

The Company is committed to providing a safe environment for employees and visitors. As a result, access to the Company's premises and/or property are limited to those authorized by it.

The Company does not tolerate employees or visitors possessing any weapons inside the workplace, including, but not limited to, weapons transported in employee vehicles. Weapons include guns, knives, explosives, and other items that could be used to inflict or cause bodily harm.

The Company reserves the right to enter or inspect employee work areas including, but not limited to, desks, filing cabinets, employee storage lockers, and other items brought into or kept inside its premises.

F. Provisions on Confidentiality

Confidentiality is essential in the business of the Company. It is essential for the Company to keep the confidentiality of all information related to its operations and clients. All such information is therefore expected to be kept in strict confidence.

The Company values and upholds the privacy and confidentiality of all information it obtains in order that the company may maintain a competitive position and a good standing in the community.

"Confidential Information" shall mean information regarded by the Company as such, including information relating to past, present or future research, development of business affairs, and any proprietary products, materials or methodologies of the Company and/or any of its clients.

Confidential Information should not be discussed with persons outside of the organization unless it is necessary for daily operations and with prior approval from management. Likewise, information should not be shared with other employees, such as one's compensation and benefits package and other similar matters. Clients or officers should not be allowed to look at employee files or request any type of personal information without sufficient reason and written authorization to do so.

General information concerning the company's pricing, customers and their needs, and the operations of the company, shall not be discussed outside the company premises. Many times, it is necessary for us to do work of a legal or confidential nature. No information concerning any legal or confidential nature may be taken or discussed outside company premises by employees.

The copy, art, negatives, plates and files maintained by the company are confidential and such material and/or the information they contain is not to be released to anyone without Management approval. Original art, negatives and plates created by or for the company are the sole property of the Company. No employee may take or make duplicate copies of these materials for use other than those sold by the Company. Rejected materials due to quality must be destroyed or disposed of properly and cannot be taken or used in any manner by company personnel. In the same context, customer work is private personal property and extreme discretion must be utilized in displaying or showing this material even within company premises. Any violation of this policy may be reason for legal action and result in termination.

In addition to disciplinary action, all employees should be aware that breach of this policy may also lead to legal action. For this reason, employees should be aware of the seriousness of this policy.

Inquiries seeking information about current or former employees should be referred to the HR Manager. The Company does not provide written references regarding any of its current or former employees.

Section 3: Kinds of Offenses

Offenses are classified according to their seriousness.

Minor Offenses refer to

- Simple violations of the company's rules or procedures which do not result in serious consequences such as financial loss, administrative or operational difficulty, damage to Company property, corporate embarrassment or physical harm.
- Those which arise from simple negligence without resulting in serious inconvenience to the company or any other person.

Major Offenses are those which indicate a disregard for the Company's interests through repeated violations within a month's time (reckoned from date of first violation), of established company policies, rules and regulations and which otherwise would have been minor offenses, or the culpable commission or omission of an act which results in serious embarrassment or inconvenience to the Company or any other person.

Serious & Grave Offenses refer to acts or omissions which are characterized by:

- sub-par performance of the work performed which results in negative repercussions from our clients

- deliberate / significant and malicious intent to achieve personal gain; or
 - gross negligence; or
 - habitual disregard for established procedures; or
 - failure to notify the Company immediately of a solicitation from a client or vendor; or
 - serious undermining of authority and which involve or result in any of the following:
 - loss of money; or
 - breach of trust relative to confidential and/or highly-classified information; or
 - public scandal and consequent erosion of confidence due to dishonesty, habitual drunkenness, immorality, etc; or
 - financial loss or administrative/operational obscurity or corporate embarrassment for the Company or physical harm to its publics, officers or employees.
 - Loss of earnings of the Company due to intentional or negligent actions of the employee.

Any act construed as serious misconduct, willful disobedience of the lawful orders of the Company or representative in connection with one's work, gross and habitual neglect of duties, fraud, willful breach of the trust reposed in him by the Company, and any other analogous cause under all applicable sections of the Labor Code and in reference to Section 9 – Table of Offenses and Penalties of this Employee Manual, of which are willful in character and grave in nature that it has transgressed an established and definite rule of action in relation to employee's work shall be an automatic ground for disciplinary action up to and including dismissal.

Just Causes

Article 297 (formerly 282) of the Philippine Labor Code indicates that the company can terminate an employment for any of the following just causes:

- Serious misconduct or willful disobedience by the employee of the lawful orders of his employer or representative in connection with his work
- Gross and habitual neglect by the employee of his duties
- Fraud or willful breach by the employee of the trust reposed in him by the employer or duly authorized representative
- Commission of a crime or offense by the employee against the person of his employer or any member of his family or his duly authorized representative
- Other causes analogous to the foregoing.

Employees terminated for just cause are not entitled to separation benefits.

Authorized Causes

Article 299 (formerly 284) of the Philippine Labor Code allows the company to terminate the services of any employee suffering from a disease if "...continued employment is prohibited by law or is prejudicial to his health as well as to the health of his co-employees..."

The Company may likewise terminate an employee due to the following authorized causes found in Article 299 (formerly 284) of the Labor Code:

- The installation of labor-saving devices (automation)
- Redundancy (superfluity in the performance of a particular work)
- Redundancy to prevent losses (there is an excess of employees and employer wants to prevent financial losses)
- The closing or cessation of operation of the establishment or undertaking unless the closing is for the purpose of circumventing the provisions of the Labor Code.

In addition to the thirty (30) day notice to the Department of Labor, the affected employees shall likewise be given a thirty (30)-day notice prior to the effectiveness of the separation from employment and the payment of separation or termination pay, as may be provided under existing laws.

In such case, the mandatory procedure in investigating cases shall be observed in accordance with the rules implementing the provisions of the Labor Code as follows:

- Notice to Explain or Show Cause
- Notice of Hearing or Formal Investigation
- Notice of Decision

Mandatory Notices

For termination of employment based on just causes as defined in the Labor Code and the grounds enumerated in this Handbook, the following must be observed by the Company:

- A written notice should be served on the employee specifying the ground or grounds for termination, and giving to said employee a period of at least five (5) calendar days within which to explain his side;
- A hearing or conference during which the employee concerned, with the assistance of counsel if the employee so desires, may be given to provide an additional opportunity to respond to the charge/s, present his evidence or rebut the evidence presented against him in accordance to prevailing jurisprudence; and
- A written notice of termination served on the employee indicating that upon due consideration of all the circumstances, grounds have been established to justify his termination.

In case of termination, the foregoing notices shall be hand delivered to the employee concerned or in the event that personal delivery is not possible, such notices shall be served via personal email and Zoho Sign.

Section 4: Kinds of Penalties

Offenses are penalized depending on their seriousness and attending mitigating or aggravating circumstances. The following penalties may be imposed:

Written Reprimand – This is imposed upon an employee who commits an offense for the first time. It is an initial communication by the supervisor with the employee to make the employee aware of the potential problem. This is served upon the offender to warn him that he should be careful in the future, otherwise, a repetition of the offense will subject him to a higher penalty.

Suspension – This penalty is a physical detachment from service for a specific period of time between 1 and 30 days without pay depending on the gravity of the offense or violation. Application and duration of Suspensions are at managers' sole discretion.

Managers shall take into consideration the exigencies of the job, the client's work processes, manpower resources, among others, before such penalty may be imposed and the imposition of said penalty shall in no way be construed or taken as a precedence on future penalties.

Dismissal – It is the termination of an employee's services for just cause. The employee shall automatically forfeit all benefits which would normally accrue to him on retirement or separation for reason/s other than for just cause(s).

Section 5: Non-Punitive Measures

Restitution – Restitution for losses is not considered as punishment. In the event that the Company incurs any loss due solely to the fault or negligence of an employee, the Company shall pursue restitution or restoration of any such losses and the employee will be expected to acquiesce to a fair and reasonable salary deduction and/or payment plan.

Preventive Suspension – This is only an intermediate protective measure, not a penalty. An employee may be placed under preventive suspension if his or her continued employment poses a serious and imminent threat to the property of the Company or the life or property of his co-employees. The preventive suspension shall not last longer than thirty (30) days, after which, the employee is entitled to immediate reinstatement to his/her former or to a substantially equivalent position or the company may extend the period of suspension, provided that, during the period of extension, the employee is paid the salaries and other benefits due to him/her.

In such a case, the employee shall not be bound to reimburse the amount paid to him/her during the extension if the Company decides, after completion of the hearing, to dismiss him.

Section 6: Effects of Penalties

The imposition of penalties shall be considered in the employee's promotion and in their performance rating, as follows:

PENALTY	EFFECT ON PROMOTION	EFFECTIVITY PERIOD
First Written Warning	no promotion	for 6 months from the date of the First Written Warning
Final Written Warning	no promotion	for 12 months from the date of the First Written Warning
Suspension	no promotion	Refer to Section 10 below
Dismissal	N/A	Permanent

NTE Rollback

PENALTY	EFFECTIVITY PERIOD
First Written Warning	for 6 months without any Warning for the same offense
Final Written Warning	for 9 months without any Warning for the same offense
Suspension	for 12 months without any Warning for the same offense
Dismissal	Permanent

Section 7: Circumstances that Affect Administrative Liability

Mitigating circumstances shall mean those circumstances by reason of which the penalty corresponding to an offense committed by an employee is made lighter or less severe than what is usually imposed for such offense. These include past performance, degree of participation, lack of prior offenses and, in general, such circumstances which, in Management's view, justify the imposition of a penalty less severe than what is usually prescribed in the schedule of penalties.

Aggravating circumstances shall mean those circumstances by reason of which the penalty corresponding to an offense committed by an employee is increased or made more severe than what is usually imposed for such offense. These include the employee's past record of offenses, habituality in the commission of offenses, the accompanying adverse publicity stirred by the offense(s) which tends to erode the Company's corporate image, and such other circumstances which, in Management's view, justify the imposition of a penalty more severe than what is usually prescribed in the schedule of penalties.

Section 8: Administrative Jurisdiction/Procedures

A. Administering Officer

All employees have the duty to report immediately any violation of company rules and regulations which come to their knowledge to their human resource manager. The human resource manager shall then bring the report to the attention of the human resource person/supervisor as soon as possible.

The human resource manager has the authority to investigate all offenses and penalize minor and less serious offenses. He has the power to impose penalties lower than dismissal after prior consultation with the company counsel and management. Where the offense calls for the penalty of dismissal the legal procedure for dismissal shall be undertaken prior to termination of the employee's employment.

B. Procedure

Administrative investigations and other proceedings shall be summary and expeditious in nature. They shall not be governed by the technical rules of procedure or by the rules on evidence applied to judicial proceedings. Due process shall always be observed.

Upon filing the report or complaint, human resource manager may, from an examination thereof and such evidence as may be attached thereto, dismiss the same outright for being patently without basis or merit. The employee concerned and the complainant shall be duly informed of such action.

Otherwise, the Management Panel shall immediately notify in writing the employee concerned of the charge(s) against him and require him to explain in writing within 120 hours (5 days) why no disciplinary action shall be taken against him. Should the employee fail to answer the report or complaint within the specified period, the employee shall be deemed to have waived his/her right to be heard.

Thereafter, the human resource manager may impose the appropriate disciplinary action as may be warranted by the facts alleged in the report/complaint and the answer and all available evidence unless he believes that a more thorough investigation or hearing is required to establish the facts.

If a more formal hearing or investigation is necessary or the employee concerned has requested such formal hearing or investigation, the employee shall be given ample opportunity to be heard and to defend themselves with the assistance of their chosen representative or counsel, at their discretion.

C. Implementation of Disciplinary Action

The decision of the human resource manager shall be final unless appealed within two (2) days to the highest-ranking officer of the Company present in the Philippines upon the filing of the appeal. The decision of said officer shall be final.

The human resource manager shall implement the disciplinary action only after the decision shall have become final.

Disciplinary action shall be applied consistently and uniformly regardless of rank and position. Like penalties shall be imposed for like offenses. The offense, together with mitigating and/or aggravating circumstances, shall be the measure of the penalty to be imposed. The imposition of penalties shall be the sole prerogative of Management.

Section 9: Progressive Discipline Categories

This schedule of offenses is not all inclusive and therefore not limited to the offenses enumerated hereunder. Thus, in addition to the specific infractions as provided below, the Company is not precluded from imposing appropriate sanctions/penalties for acts or omissions constituting violations of existing policies, procedures, and rules and regulations and those offenses constituting acts or omissions punishable by the Revised Penal Code and other laws of the Philippines.

The company reserves the right to amend, change, add or alter the content of the Employee's Handbook from time to time as the circumstances dictate and when particular predicaments call for such amendments or supplementation of the Handbook.

All amendments, changes, alterations, additions or otherwise shall be furnished to all employees through written notice whether it be in the form of an addendum, memorandum or other written form to which acknowledgment of its receipt shall be made by the respective employees in writing.

The following Progressive Discipline shall be observed as follows:

Minor offenses

Part 8: Mandatory Workplace Policies

Section 1: Drug-Free Workplace Policy

Introduction

Drug use and abuse represents a threat to the well-being of every employee and could cause damage to the company's image and puts it in high exposure to risks and liability.

Every employee is expected to come to work free from the adverse effects of drugs. ECEnterprises Group Manila, Inc. will not tolerate any involvement with drugs which adversely affect the workplace and the work environment or put at risk the safety of employees, the public, equipment owned by the company or the company's good standing in the community.

Under the guidelines of Department of Labor and Employment Order no. 53-03, in support of Republic Act No. 9165 (Dangerous Drugs Act of 2002), we are instituting this Drug Free Workplace Policy.

Policy

ECEnterprises Group Manila, Inc. prohibits any employee from using, possessing, distributing, purchasing or selling of illegal drugs or narcotics, inhalants, or any unlawful substances within or outside the company premises, whether or not they are on duty.

On top of corrective action, the company is obliged to turn over all materials including drug substances, paraphernalia and records to proper government agencies for filing of appropriate charges pursuant to R.A. 9165.

Anyone caught using illegal substances in company premises shall be terminated. Any employee found under the influence of drugs for the first time, per confirmatory test result, shall not be permitted to work until such time that he submits himself to and recovers from treatment, counseling or rehabilitation. Second time offenders shall be dismissed.

Any employee showing just cause for suspicion to be under the influence of drugs shall be immediately made to undergo drug screening. Pertinent corrective actions are outlined under the guidelines of this policy.

The policy applies to all ranks of employees of ECEnterprises Group Manila, Inc.

Definitions

Illegal Drugs – drugs that are classified as illegal under Philippines Laws, specifically R.A. 9165, examples of which are listed, but not limited to, below:

- Marijuana
- Shabu or methamphetamine hydrochloride
- Ecstasy pills
- Hallucinogens
- Depressants or stimulants not prescribed by physician

Prescribed Drugs – Drugs that are prescribed or administered by licensed physicians to patients

Random Drug Test – refers to the unannounced schedule of testing with each employee having an equal chance of being selected for testing. The policy on the conduct of random drug tests should be known to both employers and employees.

Screening Test – a rapid test performed by a Drug Testing Center for purposes of establishing potential or presumptive positive results and the type of drug used.

Confirmatory Test – is an analytical test to validate and confirm the potential or presumptive positive result of the Screening Test using a Gas Chromatography Mass Spectrometry (GCMS) machine.

Class A Drug Testing Center – a DOH-accredited drug testing center that has the capability to collect samples, do drug screening and confirmatory testing.

Assessment Team – the safety team who shall assess and coordinate with the proper government agency for needed actions on any person under the influence of drugs.

Guidelines

1. Orientation

ECEnterprises Group Manila, Inc. shall conduct an orientation on the Drug Free Workplace Policy, explaining its salient features, the legislative background, procedure and compliance requirements.

2. Drug Screening

- a. Random Drug Test

- An unannounced drug screening test shall be conducted at schedules to be determined by management.
 - The tests shall be conducted by a Department of Health accredited Class A drug screening center or laboratory, which shall also take charge of gathering specimens from the employees.
 - The collection of samples shall be done within company premises to ensure that employees are not exposed to hazards or any inconvenience beyond what is reasonably needed to complete the process.
 - Drug testing includes Screening and Confirmatory tests. Confirmatory test is only applied when an employee turns positive in the screening.
 - Selection of employees for the screening shall be done randomly. All employees, including officers and managers, selected to undergo drug screening must submit themselves to such a test.
 - Failure or refusal to do so shall be construed as willful disobedience and shall be just cause for dismissal, as provided in Art. 282 of the Labor Code.
 - Only expenses from the drug screening and confirmatory tests shall be borne by the company.

3. Right of the Employee and Employees Found Positive

- The employee shall have the right to know the result of his drug screening.
- The company shall authorize the immediate conduct of a confirmatory test, should any employee's specimen be found positive with drugs in the first drug screening.
- An employee has the right to contest the result of his confirmatory test within 15 days after receipt of the result.

Employees found under the influence of drugs, as ascertained by a confirmatory drug test shall be dismissed from employment.

- The assessment team shall refer the offender to the Dangerous Drugs Board (DDB) or the local Anti-Drug Abuse Council or to a rehabilitation center for determining the specific course of action.
- Depending on attendant circumstances, the assessment team may summon the police for any incident related to drug use.
- Any expenses to be incurred after the screening and confirmatory tests as a result of recommended action on an employee found to be under the influence of drugs shall be shouldered by the employee.
- Absences incurred during treatment shall be charged to SIL. Any absences beyond SIL credits shall be counted as unpaid leave.

4. Use of Prescribed Drugs

Prescribed drugs must be administered by a competent medical doctor. Any employee undergoing prescribed medication must come forward and inform HRD of such. He must no longer wait to be questioned. Rather, if he is taking prescribed medication, that may be considered a controlled substance, he is duty-bound to report and present pertinent documents as proof, such as, but not limited to, a valid medical certificate and a physician-issued prescription. He must also obtain fit-to-work clearance from the company physician.

5. Pre-Employment Drug Testing

An applicant must undergo drug screening within 24 hours upon the advice of the recruiter and submit the result within the same day of taking the drug screening. Drug screening of applicants shall be done at the drug test center selected by ECenterprises Group Manila, Inc. Should the applicant fail to comply, this will be construed as his willful foregoing of his application.

The company has the right to turn down an applicant who tests positive in the screening test. Should he appeal, he may submit to confirmatory testing in a DOH-accredited drug testing center at his cost.

6. Formation of an Assessment Team

An assessment team for the purpose of this policy shall be composed of:

- Corporate Employee Relations
- Business Unit HR
- Company Retainer Physician or Nurse or any accredited physician
- Security Manager
- Manager of the Program/Department of the Offender

Functions

- The committee shall determine the details of the drug screenings.
- It shall refer to the appropriate government agency(ies) for proper action of all employees who have tested positive on the drug testing.
- The committee shall also recommend the mandatory drug testing of any employee under suspicion of drugs for any or all reasons specified in 2.B of this policy.
- It recommends if an employee is fit to work after rehabilitation.

7. Confidentiality of Results

All documents connected with the drug testing performed shall be part of the employee's medical record and shall be treated as confidential.

8. Right to Inspect, Search or Examine

The company reserves the right to inspect, search or examine all persons entering the company's premises for possible possession of illegal drugs. Any person who refuses to submit to such search or inspection shall be denied access to the premises.

If an employee refuses to be inspected, searched or examined, he shall be administratively dealt with.

Lockers, drawers and cabinets, though assigned to employees, are still deemed company property and may be opened upon order, provided it is done in the presence of the person involved. In case a locker or drawer is shared by more than one person, and an illegal substance or drug paraphernalia is found inside such locker or drawer, and ownership of such cannot be safely determined, both or all employees to whom the locker or drawer is assigned shall be made to go through suspicion drug screening.

Section 2: Workplace Policy on Mental Health

In conformity with Republic Act No. 11036 otherwise known as the Mental Health Act of 2018 which affirms the basic right of all Filipinos to mental health as well as the fundamental rights of people who require mental health services, this policy is issued for the information and guidance of all employees.

The purpose of this policy is to establish, promote and maintain the mental health and well-being of all employees through workplace practices and programs, and encourage employees to take responsibility for their own mental health and well-being.

The Company aims to:

- Build and maintain a workplace environment and culture that supports mental health and well-being and prevents discrimination (including bullying and harassment).
- Increase employee knowledge and awareness of mental health and well-being issues and behaviors.
- Correct stigma and discrimination associated with mental health conditions in the workplace.

In order to do this, the Company shall:

- Together with employees, representatives from the Clinic shall develop, implement, monitor and evaluate the workplace policy and program for mental health and well-being.
 - Provide information regarding mental health and well-being.
 - Facilitate access of employees with mental health conditions to treatment and psychosocial support.
 - Ensure non-discriminatory practices in the workplace.
 - Ensure confidentiality of the health status and medical records of employees.

It is also expected that employees support and contribute to the Company's aim of providing a mentally healthy and supportive environment for all employees by:

- Understanding this policy
- Considering this policy while completing work-related duties and at any time while representing the Company
- Taking reasonable care of their own mental health and wellbeing, including physical health
- Taking reasonable care that their actions do not affect the health and safety of other people in the workplace.

This policy applies to all employees, including contractors, and shall take effect upon signing the Company Handbook.

Nothing in this policy should be construed to limit the rights and prerogatives of the Company under its Handbook, and other relevant policies as well as the provisions of the Labor Code, as amended, including its implementing rules and regulations, and pertinent social legislations.

Section 3: Workplace Policy on Safe Spaces

The Company values the dignity of every human person and guarantees full respect for human rights. It likewise recognizes the role of women in nation-building and ensures the fundamental equality before the law of women and men. The Company assures, through its policies and implementation that both men and women must have equality, security and safety in the workplace.

To this end, the Company has the duty to prevent, deter, or punish the performance of acts of gender-based sexual harassment in the workplace through the following means:

- Disseminate or post in a conspicuous place a copy of RA 11313 or the Safe Spaces Act to all people in the workplace.
- Provide measures to prevent gender-based sexual harassment in the workplace, such as the conduct of anti-sexual harassment seminars.
- Provide and disseminate, in consultation with all people in the workplace, a code of conduct or workplace policy which shall:

- Expressly reiterate the prohibition on gender-based sexual harassment.
 - Describe the procedures of the internal mechanism created under Section 17(c) of the Safe Spaces Act or RA 11313; and
 - Set administrative penalties.

Committee on Decorum and Investigation

This committee is created to investigate and address complaints of gender-based sexual harassment. It shall be composed of the following members:

- Program Managers
- HR Officers
- Safety and Health Officers
- Operations Managers
- Assistant Managers
- STLs
- TLs
- Tenured agents

The committee must be headed by a woman and not less than half of its members should be women. Its members should be impartial and not connected or related to the alleged perpetrator.

The committee is duty-bound to investigate and decide on the complaints within ten (10) days or less upon receipt thereof. Further, the committee must observe due process, protect the complainant from retaliation and guarantee confidentiality to the greatest extent possible.

Part 9: Ethics and Decorum

Section 1: Conflicts of Interest

As an employee of ECE, you are expected to act in the best interests of the company and maintain the highest standards of integrity. To prevent any potential conflicts of interest, if your job at ECE includes purchasing, procurement, administration, management and/or any other position that requires you to spend company funds for any reason, we prohibit employees from making personal purchases of goods or services from any entity, individual, or company with which they have a personal interest or relationship. Specifically, you acknowledge that you understand the following company rules, and agree to follow them:

1. Vendor Relationships: You shall not purchase goods or services from any vendor, supplier, or contractor if you have a direct or indirect personal interest in that entity (e.g., ownership, family relationship, close friendship).
2. Outside Business Interests: If you are involved in any business or financial relationship with an external entity, you must disclose it promptly to your supervisor or the HR department. Such relationships may include ownership, consulting, or employment.
3. Gifts and Benefits: Accepting gifts, discounts, or other benefits from vendors or business partners that could influence your purchasing decisions is strictly prohibited.
4. Transparency: If you become aware of any potential conflict of interest, you must immediately disclose it to your supervisor or HR. Failure to do so may result in disciplinary action."

Section 2: Strict Prohibition on accepting Kickbacks or Bribes

Prohibition of Bribes and Kickbacks:

ECE upholds the principles of honesty, integrity, and transparency in conducting its business and taking care of its clients. In line with this commitment, ECE strictly prohibits any form of bribery and corruption while performing ECE duties, as well as in dealing with its clients, business partners, service providers, and governmental agencies and instrumentalities.

Employees have the obligation to ensure that any interaction with public officials, clients, business partners, and service providers complies with all relevant laws and regulations, as well as with this policy.

Corruption Prevention

This policy is subject to such rules as ECE may prescribe gifts of minimal value such as promotional items and minor company collaterals as may be customary in the ordinary course of business and as appropriate to the occasion. Nevertheless, employees must exercise caution regarding the giving or receiving of business-related gifts or hospitality/entertainment.

The following shall be considered as prohibited acts of improper exchange for compensation and corruption:

- Directly or indirectly offering, giving, requesting, or receiving money, gifts, favors, benefits or anything of value for the purpose of influencing decisions or gaining unfair advantage in company transactions.
- Using or performing official functions for personal gain;
- Performing or neglecting to perform any official function in exchange for receiving money, gifts, favors, benefits or anything of value in the course of business or;
- Any actions that are unlawful or illegal in exchange for receiving money, gifts, favors, benefits or anything of value.

Any act, attempt or allegation of bribery, improper exchange for compensation, and/or kickbacks shall be treated as grave offenses that will be handled with dispatch and dealt with the full force of the applicable laws, rules or regulations.

In handling any case alleging bribery, kickbacks, or corruption, ECE shall be guided by its Code of Conduct herein, and the then-applicable laws of the Philippines pertaining to the said subject.

Misuse of Company Funds:

The use of ECE funds for personal gain, or any unauthorized purpose, is strictly prohibited. Any misuse of company funds is a serious violation of both our ethical standards and legal obligations.

Reporting Procedures:

Employees are responsible for reporting any incident regarding an offer of a bribe, kickback or any similar act from the moment of its occurrence. Employees must report such an incident to any of the following:

- Your Project Manager (PM)
 - A representative from Human Resources Officers (HRD)
 - A Senior Manager

Confidentiality will be maintained to the fullest extent, and no retaliatory action will be taken against employees who report such incidents in good faith.

Consequences:

Violations of this policy are grounds for immediate termination of employment. In addition, individuals involved may face criminal prosecution under applicable laws. ECE will take all necessary measures to protect its integrity as its operations are paramount.

Section 3: Guidelines on Personal Relationships within the Company

At ECEnterprises Group Manila, Inc., we value a harmonious and productive work environment. We understand that personal relationships may develop between colleagues. While we do not wish to interfere with personal matters, it is essential to maintain professionalism and ensure that such relationships do not affect the workplace dynamics.

Disclosure:

Employees with existing or future relationship/s either by consanguinity or affinity with co-employees of competing companies are expected to disclose such relationship/s to the Management. Said disclosure is confidential and will aid the management of any potential conflicts of interest. If management perceives a conflict or potential conflict of interest, every effort shall be made, together by management and the employee, to arrive at a solution within six (6) months, either by transfer to another department, without diminution in salary and benefits, or by career preparation toward outside employment.

Professionalism:

Employees are expected to always maintain a professional demeanor while at work.

Personal relationships should not interfere with work performance, decision-making, or create an uncomfortable environment for other colleagues.

Conflicts of Interest:

Employees should avoid any activity, investment relationship, or interest that may run counter to the responsibilities which they owe to the Company. To this, employees are expected:

- To avoid having personal or family interest, financial or otherwise, in any competitor supplier or other businesses which may consciously or unconsciously influence their actions or decisions and thus deprive the Company of legitimate profit.
- To refrain from using their position in the Company or knowledge of Company plans to advance their outside personal interests, that of their relatives, friends and other businesses.
- To avoid outside employment or other interests for income which would impair their effective job performance.
- To consult with Management on such activities or relationships that may lead to conflict of interest.

Behavior in the Workplace:

Public displays of affection are not appropriate in the workplace and should be avoided.

Any behavior that disrupts the work environment or affects other employees' performance is not acceptable.

Confidentiality:

Employees must respect the confidentiality of their colleagues' personal information.

Gossip or spreading information about personal relationships is not tolerated and will be subject to disciplinary action.

Account-Specific Guidelines:

Employees within the same account should be particularly mindful of maintaining professionalism to avoid any potential conflicts or perceptions of favoritism.

Please also refer to the Conflict-of-Interest clause.

Reporting Concerns:

If any employee feels uncomfortable or believes that a personal relationship is affecting the workplace, they are encouraged to report their concerns to the Human Resources Department. All reports will be handled confidentially and investigated promptly.

Section 4: Data Privacy
